

ADMISSION

Rice offers more than 50 undergraduate majors across seven academic schools of study, including architecture, business, engineering, humanities, music, natural sciences, and social sciences. All applicants must specify which one of our seven academic schools is their primary intended area of study. In addition, applicants will be asked to indicate up to three specific academic areas of interest (majors, minors, pre-professional tracks). Our academic schools are looking for different strengths and qualities in applicants. Students should choose the school that most accurately reflects their intended area(s) of academic interest.

Rice seeks through its admission policies to bring bright and promising students to the university from a range of socioeconomic, cultural, geographic, and other backgrounds. We celebrate the diverse experiences of prospective students who will contribute to our community of scholars. We seek to empower the varied voices of multifaceted students so that they may be heard. In so doing, we endeavor to craft a residential community that fosters creative, intercultural interactions among students, where prejudices of all sorts are confronted fairly and dispelled. We aim to enroll a class of students that is multidimensional in ability, ideology, background, achievement and/or lived racial experience. Such diversity is critical in solving the most perplexing, challenging problems already known, and those we have not yet encountered.

Admission

Through holistic evaluation review we evaluate the breadth of students' accomplishments, interests and contributions to their communities within the context of their life experiences. We consider a variety of factors including the rigor of a student's coursework, academic performance, extracurricular activities and achievements, essays, and articulated knowledge about the Rice community. We are careful not to emphasize any single academic metric, such as class rank, grade point average, or test scores. We evaluate each student within the context of their school and personal environment and consider what opportunities they have had access to as well as the challenges that they may have faced. We value the breadth of socioeconomic, cultural, geographic, racial or ethnic, educational and other perspectives that each student brings to the table. More information about Rice's admission philosophy can be found here (<https://admission.rice.edu/apply/application-philosophy/>).

Undergraduate First-Year Applicants

First-year applicants are those who will complete high school by the end of the current academic year.

- Students enrolled in concurrent high school and college courses are considered first-year candidates.
- Students who have elected to take time off from schooling between graduating from high school and enrolling in college are considered first-year candidates.
- Completion of a high school diploma (or an equivalent) prior to enrollment is required for all new incoming students.

Domestic vs. International

Domestic applicants are those who hold one of the following citizenship or residency statuses:

- U.S. citizenship
- Permanent Residency

- DACA
- Undocumented who do not hold DACA status but have resided in the U.S. for an extended period of time

International applicants are foreign nationals applying to Rice. Foreign nationals are students living outside the U.S. or living in the U.S. who hold, a valid F-1, J-1, H-1, H-4, etc. visa/ status, as well as those pending Permanent Residency status. Rice's international student designation is based on residency or citizenship status rather than where a student lives and studies.

Rice offers three first-year application decision plans: Early Decision, Regular Decision, and QuestBridge National College Match.

Early Decision Plan

Early Decision is a binding decision plan designed for students who have selected Rice as their first choice. High School Requirements

Official Transcripts

Official high school/secondary school transcripts must include grades from 9th through 11th grade as well as courses being taken in the 12th grade. Early Decision applicants are encouraged to submit first marking period grades, when they become available. Regular Decision applicants are required to submit mid-year grades from 12th grade, when they become available.

Applicants studying in an international exam-based curriculum, must submit:

- All official high school transcripts
- Final exam results (for example IGCE/GCSE, CBSE X/ AISSCE X)
- Predicted exam results, if available

Course Requirements

Rice seeks students who demonstrate intellectual vitality through their course selection and their grade performance. Most applicants will challenge themselves by taking advantage of the rigorous coursework available to them. At a minimum, students must complete the following.

| Subject Area | Number of Credits |
|---|-------------------|
| English | 4 |
| Social Studies | 2 |
| Mathematics | 3 |
| Laboratory Science (e.g. biology, chemistry, physics) | 2 |
| A foreign language | 2 |
| Additional credits in any of the categories above | 3 |
| Total | 16 |

- At a minimum, the natural science and engineering divisions require trigonometry or precalculus and both chemistry and physics. Students may substitute a second year of chemistry or biology for physics.
- Students admitted with curriculum deficiencies will be asked to complete the required work by taking high school or college-level courses during the summer before enrolling at Rice.

Standardized Testing

Rice will allow first-year and transfer student applicants to undergraduate degree-seeking programs to submit SAT or ACT test scores, if they choose. Students who are unable to submit test scores or prefer not to submit test scores will be given full consideration in the admission selection process.

While standardized tests have long served to provide an external benchmark of college-readiness that provides meaningful information about a student's preparedness for the rigors of a Rice education, they are merely one factor of many that are considered in the admission process. As is consistent with our holistic review, students will be given full consideration with the information they have provided regardless of their decision to submit their test scores.

For more information visit the Standardized Testing section of the First Year Domestic Applicants page \(https://admission.rice.edu/apply/first-year-domestic-applicants/#standard-testing\), First Year International Applicants page \(https://admission.rice.edu/apply/first-year-international-applicants/#standardized-testing\) or Transfer Applicants page \(https://admission.rice.edu/apply/transfer-applicants/#standardized-testing\).

English Language Proficiency

Applicants whose first language is not English are required to demonstrate English proficiency in one of two ways:

1. Completing at least two years of full-time study in an English language curriculum prior to submitting an application.
2. Submitting one of the following official test scores: Test of English as a Foreign Language, (TOEFL), International English Language Testing System (IELTS), or Duolingo.

To be considered official, all scores must be sent directly from the testing organization. Rice's TOEFL code is 6609. For more information visit the First Year International Applicants page \(https://admission.rice.edu/apply/first-year-international-applicants/#language-proficiency\).

Letters of Recommendation

Candidates must submit letters of recommendation from their counselor and two teachers.

Counselor Letter of Recommendation

The counselor letter of recommendation serves to highlight the accomplishments of a student within the context of their high school. The letter must come from an applicant's assigned school counselor, college counselor, principal, or headmaster.

Teacher Letters of Recommendation

The two teacher recommendations serve to highlight the applicant's academic strengths and contributions in the classroom. Both of these recommendations should be from teachers of core academic subjects, and ideally one recommendation should relate to the applicant's intended area of study. Though not a requirement, we would prefer letters from teachers who have taught the student for a full course.

Supplemental Letters of Recommendation

The required counselor recommendation and two teacher recommendations provide the Admission Committee with all the information we need to make an informed admission decision. However, if someone has unique and personal knowledge about an applicant's accomplishments or talents, the applicant may have that individual submit a supplemental recommendation.

Interviews

We recommend an interview for first-year applicants, though they are optional and not guaranteed. Interviews are a great way to articulate one's knowledge about Rice and an excellent opportunity to showcase academic and personal successes while learning more about the campus experience. For more information, visit the First Year Domestic Applicant page \(https://admission.rice.edu/apply/first-year-domestic-applicants/\) or the First Year International Applicant page \(https://admission.rice.edu/apply/first-year-international-applicants/#interview\).

Rice/Baylor Medical Scholars Program

Rice University has concluded our participation in the Rice/Baylor Medical Scholars program. We remain committed to supporting our current cohorts as they finish their studies at Rice and matriculate into Baylor College of Medicine. However, we will no longer accept new applications to the Rice/Baylor Program. We will continue to advise students on the many avenues and pathways to becoming healthcare professionals, including the traditional medical school application process.

Financial Aid & Scholarships

Need-Based Financial Aid for Domestic Students

We know that one of the biggest factors in determining the right school is affordability. Because we believe talent deserves opportunity, Rice offers need-blind admission to domestic students. This means we do not consider finances when we review the application. Additionally, Rice meets 100 percent of demonstrated need – without loans – for those who are eligible for the Rice Investment, one of the most notable financial aid programs in the country. For more information about need-based financial aid and The Rice Investment, please visit our Office of Financial Aid website \(https://financialaid.rice.edu/\). See also Tuition, Fees and Expenses \(https://ga.rice.edu/undergraduate-students/student-services-organizations/tuition-fees-expenses/\).

Need-Based Financial Aid for International Students

Rice considers international applicants on a need-aware basis, and offers need-based financial aid to a limited number of international first year applicants. This means when the Admission Committee evaluates international applications, the amount of financial aid a family might need is taken into consideration. Students who wish to be considered for financial aid must indicate their intention to apply for financial aid on the admission application. International students admitted without a request for financial aid cannot apply for financial aid in subsequent years. Rice uses the CSS Profile for international students applying for financial aid. For more information, visit the Office of Financial Aid page \(https://financialaid.rice.edu/apply-aid/international-students/\).

Merit-based Scholarships

The Office of Admission offers merit-based scholarships to incoming first-year students who distinguish themselves academically and personally among our highly competitive group of admitted students. These scholarships are based solely on merit and financial need is not taken into consideration. There is no separate application or interview required; the Admission Committee automatically considers all admitted students, both domestic and international, on the basis of the student's application for admission. About 20% of admitted students are offered a merit scholarship each year. Students awarded a merit-based scholarship will be notified at the time of admission.

International Student Financial Statement

All international applicants living outside the U.S. or in the U.S. must complete the International Student Financial Statement and supply the appropriate supporting documentation. International applicants not requesting financial aid must demonstrate the ability to finance their education at Rice. Those requesting financial aid must provide information about their family's financial status.

To complete the required Financial Statement, applicants will need to do the following:

- Indicate if they will or will not be requesting financial aid
- Submit all bank statements or affidavits supporting total funds available to go towards the total cost of attendance. Tax documents and proof of income are not accepted as supporting documentation.
- Submit all award letters or documentation supporting any scholarship funds available to go towards the total cost of attendance.
- Provide an explanation of how the applicant plans to cover the cost of attendance if the total sum of available funds is below $74,500.

All supporting financial documentation must be in English and converted to U.S. dollars.

The International Student Financial Statement can be found on the Rice Admission Student Portal once the application is submitted. An application will not be complete until the financial statement and all required documentation are submitted.

This may include joining the military or workforce, taking a gap year(s) for religious endeavors or self-discovery, caring for personal health or family, etc. Rice welcomes all students to apply, regardless of the path taken before or after high school.
